The imprinting process is carried out by validation machines. At the beginning of each term, the card must be validated at one of these validation machines.

Once the card has been inserted, the machine will first check the validity of the card, then scan the background system and imprint the TRW strip with the new validity date and the semester ticket. The latter is only applicable for students of the department in Würzburg. The machine will simultaneously update the data on the chip.

The process takes about 2-3 seconds / card
